This palatial house from the beginning of the 18th century is today a point of reference, not only for its beauty but also for its history and the quality of the wines it has always produced. Its interior is rich in 18th century tiles, and marble, typical of the region, is also found everywhere. According to the story, the Quinta was once acquired by

D. João V to offer a courtesan with whom he was hopelessly in love.

It was this courtesan who gave the name to the Quinta and the wine that is currently produced here. At a time after the construction of the house, a chapel dating from 1752 was built, which was dedicated and consecrated to Nossa Senhora do Carmo.

Since the beginning, the farm's wines have been widely recognized, not only by the general public, but also by opinion leaders. With high scores in the renowned international magazines WineSpectator, Robert Parker and Wine Enthusiast, as well as in several international competitions, the Great Gold Medal award for this wine was a great achievement, as it was, until then, the only Portuguese wine to win this distinction .

The private visit to the Quinta includes:

Arrival at Quinta

- Visit to the chapel of the century. XVIII, consecrated to Nossa Senhora do Carmo.
- Visit to the winery, where the famous marble mills are located, where the grape "treading" is still made today.
- Tasting of all wines accompanied by bread and cheeses from the region.
