Welcome to Wamena. This small Indonesian town provides the Baliem Valley with contact to the outside world. As missionaries began to arrive in the Baliem Valley, a staging area was needed to deliver supplies to the tribes and to provide a center of commerce as well. The town is inhabited by approximately 10,000 people, while the population in the surrounding tribal area is not attainable.

In Wamena, you'll be met and taken to the local market and then have lunch. This afternoon, visit a couple villages in the Southeast Baliem Valley including Napua and Wesaput, which are populated by the penis-gord clad warriors of the Dani tribe and their families. Visit favorite villages where your guide has made good friends with the local residents. These people are among some of the most exotic, yet friendly and gentle that you are likely ever to encounter.

Late this afternoon you'll be taken to check in at the Baliem Valley Resort, just about one hour from town. At an elevation over 6,000 feet, the mountain air is cool and refreshing. The resort, built in traditional honay village style offers a few of the finer touches of life that were not available to travelers to this region until very recently.

Enjoy dinner and a relaxing evening at the resort.

TORAJALAND

This morning, continue touring.

Please note that one of the attractions of Tana Toraja is its elaborate festivals and the ceremonies around rites-of-passage, especially funerals. Your program will be flexible to afford you the opportunity to attend some of these festivals if they should happen to occur during your visit. However, this involves animal slaughter so be aware that it's not for everyone and you can let your guide know if you really wish to attend.

In the morning, survey the fascinating local market near Rantepao. Afterwards, discover the area based on your interests with your private guide. Visit places of interest such as typical villages at Kete Kesu, featuring traditional houses and rice barns with unique carvings, blending old and new themes.

Continue with a short walk in the beautiful scenery of Karuaya. The vegetation in Torajaland changes to pine forests mixed with stands of giant bamboo, all in a patchwork of terraced rice paddies cascading down steep ravines.

Have lunch in a traditional house with a local family.

In the afternoon, you will explore the different ways the Toraja bury their dead - from the baby graves in the trunk of big trees, hanging graves as it was done in the old days to the well-known stone graves guarded by puppets (tau-tau) high up on rocky hills.
