

Framework for a Garden Retreat

Use this structure as a framework for your own garden retreat. Hang or attach windows, doors, curtains, and other materials, to customize the structure according to your style and functional needs. This illustration is based on a 10x10 ft. structure, but you can easily adjust its size to fit your needs.

The main support posts must be set in concrete footings that extend below the frost-line in your climate. For the floor, lay down landscape fabric, then cover with 3–4 inches of gravel. The roof should be galvanized, corrugated metal; or a fiberglass substitute. The wood should be a rot-resistant, outdoor-appropriate type.
